First, I would like to apologize for my delays in responding to the many emails during the third week of March. I've been overwhelmed with the emails, written correspondence, accounting, taxes, and installing the new office computer system, but I'm finally getting caught up. We now have our office computers networked for file sharing with new faster windows based systems using MS XP Professional. Even our Internet access is faster now. This is the first step toward bringing the office into the 21 st century. Joe
