Commentary: This past December 31st 2007 was an extraordinary day for me (Steve), for three reasons: (1) I was born on 31 December 1942, so became an "international senior" on 31 December 2007. (2) It was precisely fifty years before, 31 December 1957, that my father and I arrived from New York City to our new home, Vallejo, California. (3) I celebrated by 65th with a 15 mile hike in Rancho San Antonio county park and open space near San Jose, climbing to the summit of Black Mountain. Now that I'm 65 (or 21+ if you prefer), I become eligible for all manner of discounts. My first experience was at the New York INC, when I purchased a ticket for the best from Newark Airport to the Port Authority Terminal in Manhattan. Instead of $14 it cost me $7, clearly marked "senior/disabled". Thus I worried for several hours whether the New York interpretation of 65 years old classified seniors as disabled. My own interpretation is that only New Jersey can't distinguish between senior and disables.

The next bonus took place during my purchase of an air ticket for Frankfurt this weekend. At the bottom of the website form, I changed "adult" to "65+" and the air fair plummeted, a tidy savings of more than $100. Of course, the pessimists regard such savings as a reflection of medical costs that rise with age, but I still intend to enjoy the savings per se, so long as is physically possible (hopefully, at least another 20 years).

The day before, 30 December 2007, marked 50 years since my dad and I arrived in California, spending the first night at a motel somewhere between Bakersfield and Fresno, having driven that day from Las Vegas, Nevada. Of course, at age 14 my dad was the driver, and my task was to provide company and relaxation.

Driving across country in 1957 was a far cry from modern times. The term "freeway" was a vague concept that New Yorkers believed might exist, and if so, only in California. We had the pay-by-the-mile turnpikes, but from New York City, the turnpikes petered out about 50 miles before reaching Pittsburgh. Thereafter it was traditional roads, usually two-lane, sometimes four-lane, but always with occasional traffic lights, stop signs and those terrifying "speed traps" through poverty-ridden small towns in states like Oklahoma and California. And there was US93 from Phoenix, Arizona, to Las Vegas, of which about 80 miles between Wickenburg and Kingman were not paved, a well-maintained gravel road, such as are rarely found nowadays.

Arriving in Vallejo on New Years Eve, my father insisted we find a restaurant to celebrate the holiday, my 15th birthday and our arrival in Vallejo. The result is one of those strange events that I've never forgotten. My dad called many restaurants, but always heard "sorry, we're booked" or something similar. We "dined out" at the Vallejo Greyhound Bus Terminal, the typical 1950s "greasy spoon" serving questionable food on questionably cleaned dishes. Fortunately, we survived that disgusting plate of gunk. A few days later I flew back to New York, my first experience on an airplane, and three weeks later, returned to California by train, 3-1/2 days en route, with my mom and sister. I was not to return to New York until 1964 for a short visit, but have innumably revisited that remarkably city ever since.

During my visit to the New York coin fair this year, I spent three days on the show floor, and the rest of the time at auctions, either examining the lots or bidding at the sale. Joe was there as well, and I thank him profusely for devoting so many hours and hours to the auctions and bourse table. I took three days to visit Doug Nicol in Pennsylvania, grading and pricing a couple thousand coins for him to enter into our database (item numbers from 800,000 to 899,999). Our sales at the show table were decent, as where our purchases at the show. The auctions results were as high as ever although we had some luck buying in a few sales. More stuff to keep us busy for months to come.

Finally, I shall sneak in a brief reference to that magical R word, so secretive a concept that the media has persistently pledged that it probably never will come into existence. The work is recession (shhhh! you didn't read that!), and today's news is finally tinkering with the remote possibility that it might be here shortly (or is still engulfed in ice at the South Pole?). Some columnists are now hinting that we are already either at its edge or falling into it, but in language so ethereal that we seem convinced that our alphabet bears only 25 letter, sans R.
